"THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS IN THE EATING."

That advertisers who consistently and persistently advertise on this page of THE WASHINGTON HERALD meet with excellent results is forcibly illustrated in a letter sent from the main office of Draughon's Practical Business College, in Nashville, to Mr. Edgar M. Hayes, principal of the Washington school.

The letter, in part, is as follows:

"Our dealings with The Washington Herald from this office have always been satisfactory, and we regard the paper as one of our best friends in your vicinity. Besides this, THE HEARLD is rated at the Nashville office AS ONE OF OUR BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUMS, and in placing copy with them you are assured of good service and the very best treatment You will find it to your interest to use this paper from a business standpoint."

If THE WASHINGTON HERALD can cause people to patronize Draughon's Practical Business College, it can do the same for you, provided you give it the opportunity. Draughon's College is represented in over thirty different cities, and advertised in several more. The Washington Herald is "one of the best" of all the news-
